

Curriculum Vitae

Name: Andreas Mackensen
Date of birth: 26.03.1954
Place of birth: Großburgwedel, Germany
Nationality: German

Degrees: Diploma in Geology and Paleontology, Kiel University, Germany, 1981
Dr. rer. nat., Kiel University, Germany, 1985
Habilitation and venia legendi of Geology and Paleontology, Bremen University, Germany, 1997

Positions:

2003 - Present	Adjunct Professor, Faculty of Geosciences, Bremen
1989 - Present	Research Scientist, Alfred Wegener Institute Bremerhaven
1997 - 2003	Privatdozent, Faculty of Geosciences, Bremen
1986 - 1989	Postdoctoral Scientist, Alfred Wegener Institute
1985 - 1986	NATO Fellow at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, USA
1984 - 1985	Research Assistant at Kiel University, Dept. of Geology
1982 - 1984	DEMINEX/NTNF Fellow at Bergen University, Norway

Research work on: Paleoenvironment of polar oceans
Paleontology of calcareous microfossils
Stable isotopes as tracers and proxies
Ecology of benthic foraminifera

Professional Activities:

2006 - Present	Member Executive and Science Committees of IMAGES (International Marine Global Change Study)
2001 - Present	Editor-in-Chief of Marine Micropaleontology for Europe, Africa, and the Near East
2000 - Present	Co-chair of the Southern Ocean Working Group of IMAGES
2002 - 2004	Member Steering Committee of CIRCLE (Climate Interactions, Resources and Carbon Links to Europe)
2001 - 2006	German national representative in IMAGES
1995 - 1998	Scientific Secretary of the SFB 261, Bremen University
1994 - 2001	Member Editorial Board of Marine Micropaleontology

Honors and Awards:

1985 - 1986	One-year research fellowship at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, USA
1982 - 1984	Two-year research fellowship at Bergen University, Bergen, Norway